

FCC should be ashamed that they are changing the ownership regulations without proper public debate. Who does the FCC work for, big media or the American people? This action will clearly show that it is the former.